had a leak in the roof, roofers came out to repair. During a wind storm the double doors at Boat Shop and More fell and broke the track and some braces in the roof, but building has been secured with a chain-link fence. Webster then reviewed 2024-year totals. Fraser asked about declaring an emergency and what that does with permitting, how does it benefit the Port? Webster explained the best approach is to receive a permit and explained the process if we do declare an emergency and what the repercussions could be if we don't follow the proper steps. Hartung asked about the in-water work period. Webster stated yes we would be working outside the in-water work period, if they approve the permit.

King reviewed the Safety, Security & Environmental Report. Fraser asked about our water test results. Webster reviewed item with the Board. Jonas asked Webster to expand on the fact that the Port is not charging rates and fees to recover 100% of each service provided. Webster explained that right now the things we are not recovering on are the fuel dock and moorage and marina rates. Webster explained some of the items it costs and why we aren't recovering those costs. Board asked how our rates are comparable to other Ports. Webster did email the Board a list and went over the services that we need to increase rates on. Fraser explained that some Ports fuel dock is operated by a private company. Webster agreed and explained some costs that are associated with the fuel dock. Ferraccioli asked about having a private person take the fuel dock, Webster explained the issues we have with a private company owning the fuel dock. Jonas stated that looking at other Ports we are not above anyone else, we are at or below all rates and definitely need to do a rate increase. Webster stated that yes, and for us to even match the next lowest Port, Salmon Harbor, we would have to increase our rates by 50%. Board discussed what Ports are County owned and their structure, and rate increases in the future. Board allowed public comment. Fraser refers to pages 60 through 68, demolition to existing timber dock, construct concrete pavement and storm drain facility, but installing a wastewater treatment plant. Webster explained that some of that dock needs to be repaired before construction can happen.
